NEW CAR FOR GOOD DEED AND 'ROAD TRIP FOR THE AGES'

The recognitions and praise keep coming for Gary Bath.

The Fort St. John man and Canadian Ranger, who made headlines in November after rescuing an American family stranded in Pink Mountain and drove them to Alaska, was featured Tuesday morning in a tweet from Planters and the The Kraft Heinz Company.

"Does anyone have the movie rights to this yet? This is a road trip for the ages," the tweet reads. "Hopefully their next one is just as epic. In the meantime, I'm hooking them both up with new cars and enough nuts to last a lifetime of road trips. Keep being #ANutAbove."

This recognition — as well as a car to be gifted to both Bath and Lynn Marchessault, the lady he helped — is part of Planters' "A Nut Above" campaign launched this week.

Last week, Alaska Highway News reported that Bath's story caught the attention of the company as part of a planned campaign and commercial spot for this weekend's Super Bowl.

However, Kraft Heinz says it is instead taking its $5 million budget and giving it back to people like Bath and Marchessault instead.

"I was pretty floored when I got the message and they told me what they wanted to give me," Bath said. "I'm quite excited and surprised."

Other good deeds and people being recognized are a Chicago couple who donated their cancelled wedding's catering to those in need on Thanksgiving, a Florida man who paid his neighbors' past-due utility bills, and the owners of Washington, D.C., restaurant that gave free meals and supplies to hospitality workers.

"Throughout the year, we'll be engaging and interacting with our fans in real time, listening to what inspires them, and applauding the moments they care about," said Sanjiv Gajiwala, the company's US Chief Growth Officer, in a statement.

Our 25-year-old son moved back home with an eye toward socking away money to buy a condo. We never bothered asking how long he'd planned to stay, but I got a pretty good idea when I walked into his room recently. In the corner was a milk jug with a few coins in it and a label that read "Condo down payment."
