Halloween

The most boo-tiful
 night of the year

4 family activities to get you primed for Halloween

There's no shortage of fun and spooky things to do with your kids in the weeks and days leading up to Halloween. Here are four fun activities the whole family will enjoy.

1. Decorate pumpkins. Carving jack-o'-lanterns is an annual tradition in many families. If your kids aren't old enough to wield a knife, decorate your pumpkins with paint, stickers and other craft supplies you have on hand.

2. Host a Halloween party. Invite some friends to a haunted Halloween bash. You can bob for apples, play games and have a costume contest. Don't forget to provide an assortment of spine-chilling snacks and drinks.

3. Have a movie marathon. Pop some corn and settle in for a fright night in front of the small screen. Choose kid-friendly Halloween movies for the younger ones and save the gory horror flicks for after the kids have gone to bed.

4. Bake spooky treats. Make some cookies or cupcakes and let your kids decorate them. Use orange and black icing to top the fresh goodies and incorporate assorted scary touches such as gummy worms and black licorice.

These fun family activities are the perfect way to build up to trick-or-treating on Halloween night.

3 bad habits that will amp up your energy bills

Many homeowners are surprised to learn how much energy their electronic devices use. If you're looking for ways to conserve energy and spend less on your utility bills, here are three habits that you should break immediately.

1. Watching television and movies on gaming consoles. Video game consoles use 30 to 45 per cent more power than televisions. In addition, running one high-definition gaming console requires the equivalent amount of energy as running 10 Blu-Ray devices. You're better off using your console for nothing but gaming.

2. Leaving your electronics plugged in all the time. This is a common habit, but did you know that many electronic devices use up to 40 per cent of the energy required for their functioning, even when they're turned off?

Unplugging your toaster and coffee maker after breakfast and removing chargers from outlets once devices are charged will help you conserve energy.

3. Not thinking through purchases. Laser printers use nearly twice as much power as inkjet versions. Before buying one, ask yourself if the increase in energy consumption over traditional models is worth it.

Similarly, a 55-inch flat-screen TV uses twice as much energy as a 32-inch model. Consider whether the upgrade in size is worth it.

The bottom line is that you should evaluate your needs and make purchasing decisions accordingly.

In sum, to save energy at home you should evaluate what electronics you use and how you use them. Doing so will allow you to save on your utility bills and may even extend the lifespan of your devices.

SETTINGS

Televisions, computers, printers and various other devices may sometimes come equipped with a "sleep," "power saving" or "standby" feature. You can reduce power usage in your home by engaging this function when the item isn't in use. In addition, you can change some settings, such as screen brightness, to improve energy efficiency of the device.

SPICE UP YOUR LIFE WITH THIS HOLIDAY PUNCH

Give your guests this sweet honey and zesty ginger holiday punch as soon as they enter the party. It's a warming and fragrant holiday season sipper, made refreshing with thirst-quenching lemonade, ice-cold citrus slices and an effervescent hit of de-alcoholized wine, which can be substituted with sparkling wine if you prefer an adults-only version.

Sparkling Citrus Ginger Punch

Prep time: 5 minutes

Cool/chill time: 1 hour, 15 minutes

Serves: 10

Ingredients:

¼ cup (60 mL) honey

4 cups (1 L) ginger beer

3½ cups (875 mL) PC honey ginger lemonade

1½ cups (375 mL) white de-alcoholized wine, chilled

3 cups (750 mL) ice cubes

10 slices frozen citrus blend sliced lemons and limes

¼ cup (60 mL) frozen cranberries (optional)

Directions:

Stir honey with 1 cup boiling water in small heatproof bowl until combined. Let cool completely, about 15 minutes.

Stir together ginger beer, lemonade and honey mixture in punch bowl or 12-cup (3 L) pitcher. Refrigerate until chilled, about 1 hour.

Stir in de-alcoholized wine. Add ice cubes, lemon and lime slices and cranberries (if using). Serve immediately.

Small Business Week bdc*

October 20 to 26, 2019

Success in the digital age

5 reasons to have a website for your small business

If you own a small business, having a website is vital to its success. To mark BDC Small Business Week, which runs from October 20 to 26, 2019, here are five reasons you should create a website for your company.

- 1. Gain visibility
Websites allow clients to find out more about your business. If search engine optimization (SEO) is used, they can also help you connect with your target market when they appear in search engine results.
- 2. Provide information
Websites are great platforms for organizing and communicating a lot of information efficiently. A well-designed website, both in terms of ease of use and of the information you put on it, can make a huge impact on your bottom line.
- 3. Extend your reach
Word of mouth shouldn't be underestimated but having a website will allow you to reach clients in other cities and regions. This is especially relevant if you have an online store.
- 4. Get free market research
Tracking your website's traffic statistics can be a powerful way to shape your marketing strategy. You can find out more about the kinds of people who search for your business and what motivates them to make purchases.
- 5. Enhance your brand image
Your website says a lot about your company. It can be the glue that holds your brand image together, and the design choices you make will play a key role in converting visitors into customers.

To create an attractive and effective website, work with a reputable business. In particular, many local media companies offer website creation services.
