HIKERS WAYLaid BY SNOWFALL FOUND NEAR TUMBLER RIDGE

Two women are safe after Search and Rescue teams Shelter made by Amirault & McCullough found them in the Bootski Lake area of Tumbler Ridge over Thanksgiving long weekend.

According to the Tumbler Ridge Search and Rescue Facebook page, Marianne McCollough and Nicole Amirault were hiking and realized they were lost after snow fell in the area. They made camp 3 and a half kilometres past where they lost the trail. Countless volunteers were searching for the hikers with both the South and North Peace Search and Rescue Teams.

The Tumbler Ridge Search and Rescue Team says the women did everything right, as they left a check-in time, had extra equipment, and they stayed in one location. McCollough says they were hiking marked trails, but some of the trail heads were not marked well.

Officials remind you to be prepared for drastic changes in weather when hiking alpine terrain. Carrying proper and extra clothing, having extra food and water or bringing devices to filter water for drinking, and telling people where you're going and when you're expected to return are best practices for survival in the wilderness.

KELSEY'S CHRONICLE

It's Friday, October 13th, and superstitious people are watching over their shoulders today! Some people hold dearly to old wives' tales and superstitions that family and loved ones seem to have passed along. Why do we believe in these weird and sometimes down right silly things, or think that if not practiced, we will be plagued with unfavourable luck? Here are 9 of the most common superstitions that people practice and believe in.

Black cats - Why is it that if a black cat crosses your path you're in for some bad luck? These furry critters were revered back in ancient Egyptian days and are still loved as family pets, but why when one crosses your path should you be ready for your luck to make a turn for the worst? Beginning in the middle ages and continuing in folklore tales, it is said that because cats are somewhat nocturnal, witches were able to turn into cats or that cats were used as supernatural servants for witches.

Bad things happen in 3's - Humans have a tendency to look for patterns, to find order in chaos. There is something called "confirmation bias," which is to essentially cherry pick information that confirms our beliefs and conveniently overlook the examples that don't. Coincidence is usually the more definitive conclusion.

Ladders - Why is it considered unlucky to walk under a ladder? Well on top of being potentially dangerous, it is said to resemble the gallows, and therefore means you will die if you walk under it.

Broken mirrors - If you break a mirror, be ready for 7 years of bad luck. This is because since the creation of mirrors, people believed your soul was in the mirror, meaning if it were broken, your soul would escape. Other accounts say that people believed mirrors possessed the magical power to see into the future, so breaking one would terminate its powers and misfortune would be brought upon the one who broke it.

666 - In the Bible, the "The Book of Revelations" 666 is the number that represents Satan. So sometimes when people see that number as a total on their purchase at a store, they put back one item, or buy another in order to change the total.

Salt - In the painting of "The Last Supper," Judas knocked over the salt with his elbow. Salt has since been associated with treachery and lies. Nowadays if you spill salt, some throw it over their left shoulder in an attempt to blind the devil waiting behind them... Do you throw salt over your shoulder?... Did you know that's what you were actually doing?

Knock on wood - I find myself knocking on wood after exclaiming such things as " I haven't had the flu in a over a year." In ancient mythology, trees possessed supernatural powers and people knocked or tapped on a tree to avoid tempting fate.

Salute a magpie - When you see a lonely magpie, make sure you tip your hat or simply acknowledge him, as they have apparently been known to help ward off misfortune.

Umbrellas - Don't open that umbrella inside! Umbrellas were often used for protection from the sun, so opening one inside would be disrespecting the sun god. I don't know about you, but that's one god I don't want unhappy.

NOTICE OF PERMISSIVE EXEMPTION

CORROSIVE SUBSTANCE ON HIGHWAY 2

A rollover on Highway 2 prompted action from both BC and Alberta crews the afternoon of October 9th.

A truck carrying caustic liquid had rolled over just past the Alberta border.

An Alberta air ambulance was called in to lift an injured 50 year-old man to Grande Prairie, but a decision to instead take him by ground to Dawson Creek was made on scene. The condition of the man is not known at this time.

Crews responded quickly and managed to contain the leaking of the dangerous substance.

The highway was closed for several hours as the Dangerous Goods response crew was on site to clean up the leak.

MEET THE MAYOR

October 13, 2017

From time to time the firm plans we make to rationalize our days go blowing in the winds of change and we are compelled to modify, nullify, or otherwise our intent. So it happened to me as I was attending the Union of British Columbia Municipalities (UBCM) convention in Vancouver. My good intention was to write a column from that great city to apprise you of significant or game-changing happenings or events in our province. This was not to be. No matter the corrective measures I tried and were tried by semi-experts on site, I could not connect with the WIFI in the hotel – not to receive or to send. So, being thoroughly frustrated in this attempt, I abandoned any effort to communicate. That's life in the city.

But we're not in the city (thankfully), and my computer works at home as it was built to work. And when it doesn't work, I know where to take it for the remedy.

I can report briefly on a few of the meetings in which I and members of your Council participated with various Ministries of the new government. On Monday afternoon we engaged with the Ministry of Forests, Lands, Natural Resource Operations, and Rural Development with Councillor Bassendowski taking the lead role regarding annual allowable cut and the massive stands of beetle-killed forest in the North Peace, and Councillor Deck taking the lead role regarding the pending ban of the trophy grizzly bear hunt. On Tuesday we met with the Minister of Energy, Mines and Petroleum Resources to acquaint the Ministry with Chetwynd, its strengths and challenges (I took the lead role in this meeting).

On Wednesday I attended a Ministerial Panel dealing with Infrastructure and Economic Development where I took the opportunity to impress the six attending Ministers with the crucial importance of the Pine Pass Corridor to the economy of the entire province. British Columbia neglects the annual maintenance of the Pine Pass Corridor at great cost.

I also participated in the Peace River Regional District-led session (attended by Mayors and Councillors from across the North) with Minister of Transportation Trevena at which we stressed the importance of maintaining public passenger transportation across the North.

On Thursday I participated in a two-hour workshop organized by the Fraser Basin Council to discuss ways of mitigating flood damage. For my presentation staff prepared a slide show of 60 pictures, many taken by local photographer Travis Stewart, depicting Chetwynd in all its glory, beauty, and misery. The show highlighted the great things of Chetwynd, our place in the transportation corridor, and slides from the four floods from 1964 to 2016. The picture presentation ran quietly behind me as I spoke to the importance of Chetwynd in its strategic location at the entrance to the Pine Pass. I emphasized how the economy of British Columbia is intimately linked to the North East through the Pine Pass Corridor and that British Columbia pays big time every time commerce is interrupted by flooding.

I pointed out how a practical solution to most flooding can be achieved at minimal cost if we have the cooperation and support of all levels of government. Of course, achieving that level of cooperation and support is the looming challenge which I hope to address through a resolution to UBCM in 2018.

And that's not all. Our days were full from 6:30 to late evening. Friday was the wrap up day. We were addressed by the Premier at 10, the last item of the agenda, were checked out and on the road by 11 pointed North. Home sweet Home.

Oh, by the way, "if it turns out that climate change is a hoax, we will have built a better world for nothing" (Terry Milewski, retired senior CBC correspondent, in his keynote address). Merlin Nichols, Mayor

William Livingstone

1957 ~ 2017

William John Livingstone, known as Bill, was born on January 29th, 1957 in Dawson Creek, BC to parents John and Mona Livingstone. Bill was the oldest out of four children. Laura was the second child, Robert (Bobdog) was the third. Many years later, the youngest brother Eddie would complete their family.

Bill lived in the Progress area for many years with his family before moving to Chetwynd. Moving to Chetwynd may have seemed like an idea at the time, however if John & Mona knew what kind of mischief their son was going to cause, they may have kept Bill in the bush where he loved and belonged.

Grandpa was known for his wild and mischievous ways of living life, right as a young child to his adult life. He was not exactly known for his prime and proper ways. He loved nothing more than creating a good story that involved "bending" the rules.

To everyone's surprise, Bill fell in love and married his best friend's sister, Julie Wagoner. They married May 6, 1978. Soon after they had their first son, Archie Livingstone. Soon to follow was Ellen, Gordie and last but not least Jamie. Bill moved his family to Lone Prairie where they lived their hillbilly life. The hillbilly lifestyle is what made him the happiest, and made him who he was.

Grandpa worked hard and played hard, but he always supported his family through many different jobs operating equipment in the bush. On November 17th, 1989 Bill lost his wife unexpectedly and became a single father of four. With the help of Julie's sister and brother in law, Vivian and Clem and many others, Bill moved his children to town where they made a new life in "the big city of Chetwynd."

Ellen gave him his first granddaughter, Julie – Ann Hermans. Two years later Bill was introduced to his second granddaughter Destiny Hauber. In 2003 the third granddaughter was born, Morgen Hauber. In 2010 Jamie gave him his youngest granddaughter, his crazy little Evelyn. Everyone of his grandkids holds a very special place in his heart. He loved and was so very proud of his children and grandkids.

Grandpa may be gone but him and his crazy hillbilly stories will never be forgotten. Grandpa we love you dearly.

Bill was taken from us suddenly on Friday, September 29, 2017 in Chetwynd at the age of 60 years. Bill left behind to mourn his younger brother; Bobdog, his children; Archie, Ellen, Gordie and Jamie. His beautiful granddaughters; Julie – Ann, Destiny, Morgen, and Evelyn. Many nieces, nephews and all his crazy friends.

A graveside service was held on Saturday, October 7, 2017 at 1:00 pm at the Tuscoola Mountain Cemetery, Chetwynd. Pastor Bill Evans officiated. Friends were also invited to further share this day with Bill's family beside a fire for memories and a few good laughs at 3:00pm from his oldest daughter Ellen's home.

Very Respectfully Reynars Funeral Home and Crematorium www.reynars.com

SCHOOL DISTRICTS UNDERSTAFFED

Many Schools across Northern BC are finding themselves understaffed. British Columbia Teachers' Federation President Glen Hansman says that it isn't uncommon to have staffing issues within the first two weeks of the school year, however with the school year already more than a month in, it's time for school districts to recruit teachers and fulfill the empty positions. The Prince George District Teachers Association president Joanne Hapke says that there are more than a dozen teachers understaffed and there's more reason to be worried as flu season is just around the corner.

LOMAK BULK CARRIERS CORP.

Do you need help getting a Class I License and starting an exciting career with a progressive, growing and successful bulk transportation company?

LOMAK has just reopened its Mackenzie Terminal and is looking for motivated people looking to achieve their Class I License

This is a stable employment opportunity servicing a newly acquired long term service contract. Based out of our newly reopened Mackenzie, BC terminal and reporting to the Driver Supervisor, these individuals must be motivated and have an excellent safe work record. Lomak strives to ensure the safety and wellness of all our employees, customers, suppliers and our community by maintaining our focus on safety and wellness. In order to maintain and promote a health and safe work environment, Lomak conducts pre-employment medical and drug screens in our hiring practices.

Must have a clean driver abstract and hold a Class 3 or 5 License.

If you are interested in an exciting and rewarding opportunity in a progressive and reputable company, please submit your resume and recent commercial drivers abstract in confidence to recruitment@lomak.ca or fax #250-561-0750.

We thank all candidates for their interest; however, only those selected for an interview will be contacted.
