TWO PEACE ORGANIZATIONS CONSOLING SITE C OPPOSITION

Two Peace Region organizations are doing their part to console those opposed to the government's Site C decision.

The Peace Valley Solidarity Initiative has scheduled a summit to take place in Victoria on January 26th and 27th.

The summit is an attempt to clarify questions that many have over the decision to keep Site C going despite unfavourable BCUC reports.

Meanwhile, the Peace Valley Landowner's Association is just over a quarter of their way to their 100 thousand dollar fundraising goal to assist those affected by the Dam.

The fundraiser is to help pay bills not covered by the BCUC as a result of the mega dam's construction. Courtesy of Peace FM

GRANDE PRAIRIE MURDER TRIAL OPENED JAN 3/18

The first court appearance of a man charged with the murder of a 16 year old girl in Grande Prairie.

19 year-old Justice Watt-Blais will face second degree murder charges relating to the December 16, 2017 death of then girlfriend, Hannah Sutton.

Watt-Blais is accused of fatally shooting Sutton.

Four others were scheduled to face the stand on accessory after the fact charges on January 4, 2018. Courtesy of Peace FM

KELSEY'S CHRONICLE

After all the excitement the last few months of the year brings, come January, life seems drab, boring and lifeless. A good way to spice things up is to take part in the many different "national" days that take place in January. For instance January 1st, on top of being New years Day is also known as national hangover day, who woulda thought? But that's not it, there is a "national" day for almost every day in January.

On the third, they named it the Festival of Sleep, and Toss the Fruitcake Day. For anyone who rang in the new year with a bang, you're probably wanting that glorious sleep but are back to work like the majority of us.

January 4th has been designated National Spaghetti Day. I love spaghetti!

Today, on January 5th is National Bird Day, not bird watching, just bird day. Not sure how you could celebrate but I'm sure if birds are important to you, you will find a way.

On January 6th it's National Bean Day, and National Cuddle up Day. I would probably stick to celebrating just one of these, because one with the other may not be the greatest idea.

January 8th is clean off your desk day or bubble bath day, or both...

January 10th is houseplant appreciation day and take the stairs day. We all know why it would be named that after the over indulgence of the holidays.

On January 12th you should thank your pharmacist.

January 14th is designated as dress up your pet day. This I like, maybe I'll make an outfit for my boys Yotie and Freddie-eddie which I'm sure they will just love.

On the 15th you will fit right in if you're the hat type because it's National Hat Day

January 19th is National Popcorn Day so be sure to have some kernels on hand for popping.

January 20th is National Cheese Day. This is for my type of people that think cheese goes with everything.

On the 21st is National Hugging Day. Hug your neighbour, hug your boss, hug your cashier...ok that might be weird but you never know, they may need that hug!

January 23rd is National Pie Day, which is also March 14th (3/14) but I'm sure we could probably have a pie day every month and no one would complain, maybe.

On January 24th is National Compliment Day, maybe you could compliment someone on their amazing pie they made the day prior!

January 27th it's National Chocolate Cake Day, mmmmm chocolate cake...

On January 28th let loose and have some fun at work, but not too much fun....

January 29th is National Puzzle Day, dust off the ol' puzzles in the closet and complete that beauty cat in a basket picture you told yourself you would complete one day, it's your day!

And the last day of January is set for national backwards day, and for any kid growing up in the 90's I think we have all celebrated this at some time or another. Well now you know the actual date, January 31st.

I'm going to fill my calendar with some of these that spark my interest and celebrate some wacky days with the kids this month, since there doesn't seem to be much else going on.

Also if anyone else takes part in "dress up your pet day" I would love to see pictures. You can post them on our Facebook page at Coffee Talk Express Chetwynd, BC.

On Art

Art is a window to the soul – or maybe one window through which the soul looks out on the world or views the people and objects inhabiting our space. We have a few pieces of art in our house. None of it is expensive but each piece tells a story or brings back a memory of an experience that we wish not to forget. All we have to do is pause to remember the fireflies by the river in the dark night of Haiti or Grandfather's boat in the lake that is forever lost to Russia.

As far back as recorded history can take us, people have left us the evidence of their hopes, their dreams, their fears, and yes, even their joys, maybe especially their joys. Through the media of bristle, feather, and even fingers dripping in oil, or black with charcoal, or stained with the pigments of plants and minerals from the soil, they left their visions on canvas, goat skin, and rock. Throughout the world the record of human presence from thousands of years ago can be found inscribed in the rocks.

Those who have had the privilege of visiting the cave paintings of Lascaux in France and at other sites in Spain or Eastern Europe will have marvelled at the astonishing skill and talent these ancient stone painters exhibited. Incorporating into their work the contours of the rocks with their cracks and cavities, the artists expressed perspective, color, and emotion. In positively stunning depictions of their lives. That level of skill from 4-5 thousand years ago was not replicated, was not demonstrated again until early modern times. (Yes, I am fully aware of popular dating methods placing these paintings at 15,000 years ago.)

On December 15 the Chetwynd Arts Council presented the District of Chetwynd with 14 original pieces of art themed "Our Peace Country Home." It depicts our home sweet home as seen through the eyes of the artist and communicated in oil, water color, charcoal, ink, and the photograph. Such a range of talent! Such a variety of media! And to realize that these works of art now belong to the people of Chetwynd to be displayed in perpetuity in the District Centre makes me even more conscious of the value and the talent we have right here, right now, right with us.

I am not supposing that these works of art now housed in the District Centre will last 5000 years. They are not done on rock and hidden in a cave. But for our lifetimes and beyond they will demonstrate Chetwynd's skill, talent, and emotion with palate, brush, and camera.

Art enriches. On behalf of the people of Chetwynd and the District of Chetwynd, I thank the artists and the Chetwynd Arts Council that our lives have been enriched by the talents of the artists.

You owe the privilege to yourself of visiting the District Centre to pause in front of each work of art. Read the artist's description of its meaning and message and the inspiration that motivated each artist to transfer the image from soul to material.

You will see the firefighter's hands, the log truck and loader that represents so much of our collective experience, the meeting of settler and original inhabitant, the valley soon to be transformed, and so much more. You owe yourself a visit to the District Centre art gallery. And you owe each artist a personal "thank you" for sharing a little part of herself or himself with each of us.

"Thank you" to the artists from the Mayor of your home town.

Oh, by the way, given that Canada's debt to income ratio is now 1.73 to 1.00, ever think of ...? Merlin Nichols, Mayor

HOLIDAY TREE Recycling!

January 7th | 11-3
Spencer Tuck Park

Bring your real Christmas trees for chipping and enjoy an afternoon of skating (ice permitting), hot chocolate and recycling! Meet the Moberly Lake Fire Department and learn about Recycling!

The tree chips will be reused at the Chetwynd landfill! There will also be bins for recycling Christmas lights, smoke alarms and small batteries.

In case of weather changes check the PRRD Facebook Page and website. Please no early tree drop-offs, ornaments, wrapping paper or artificial trees. For questions contact the PRRD office at 250-784-3200.

Tree chipping provided by Northern Rockies Tree Service.
