BOULEVARD WALKWAY BEAUTIFICATION PLAN

As many have noticed over the past two years, the boulevard trees have been slowly disappearing and being replaced with small saplings. In 2008, the District of Chetwynd commissioned a study that confirmed the trees had surpassed their life span of 45 years. The District began by removing dead limbs, hoping to extend the trees' lifespan, but so many had succumbed to decay, insects and ultimately just time.

They created a plan to beautify the boulevard in 2013 and decided to replace the trees, add lighting, and improve the walking trails by paving them and adding landscaping. Last year, the trees lining the highway between Nicholson Rd and Hwy 29 were the first to see the chainsaw. This year, the majority of trees from the west side of town in front of the new District building have been removed and the remaining trees in that area will be removed within the next few weeks.

The new trees that are being planted are Brandon Elm and Manchurian Ash trees. These species of trees are fast growing, are suited for our weather zone and have a lifespan of 80 years. The District plans to begin planting them in June.

As part of the "Boulevard Walkway Beautification Plan," we have so far seen the addition of a new "Welcome to Chetwynd" sign and landscaped mound at the bottom of Wabi hill lighting along the trail in front of Rodeo Sub. Within the upcoming months, the next phase of lighting will be complete, lining the path from the Rodeo Sub down to Centurion Creek.

INTERESTING PEOPLE OF CHETWYND

One of Chetwynd's youth, 15 year old Tatum Christie, has been working hard to reach her goal of raising $500 for the Fort St. John Hospital's "Bluey Days" campaign. With just over a week left to go, she has officially met her goal and will be alongside the other participants on May 27th to "Be Brave & Shave." Participants will gather at the BC Ambulance Building in Fort St. John, and Tatum hopes she will be able to donate her locks to help produce a wig.

Tatum's journey began in March when she first signed up as a participant for Bluey Days. She took on this challenge to honour her many friends and family members who have battled against this horrible disease and many that are still facing it.

Donations to this fund are used to purchase equipment that help in the comfort, diagnosis, and treatment of patients with cancer at the Fort. St. John hospital. The 2017 campaign goal is $100,000 for the Foundation's Cancer Diagnostic and Treatment Fund.

The Bluey Day campaign began in Fort St. John in 1998 and since then over $1.6 million has been raised. 100% of those funds have stayed in the community to support those dealing with cancer.

Although Tatum has met her goal of raising $525 so far, $320 of that online and $205 in cash donations, she hopes to raise even more money before the deadline on May 25th. You can donate at www.canadahelps.org/en/pages/bluey-day-tatum-christie/ or by contacting her at 250-556-4345
