B.C Flooding Evacuees To Get Additional Financial Support

The Province is teaming up with the Canadian Red Cross to provide additional financial assistance to help people meet the immediate needs associated with being evacuated due to flooding.

Financial assistance will be provided by the Red Cross to people whose primary residences have been placed on evacuation orders due to the flooding and extreme weather event that occurred Nov. 14-16, 2021. Eligible households will receive $2,000.

"British Columbians have faced each new challenge over the last few years with compassion and generosity, whether it's the flooding we're facing now, to COVID-19 and wildfires," said Mike Farnworth, Minister of Public Safety and Solicitor General. "The Canadian Red Cross is a trusted partner and together we will be able to get supports out to affected people and communities as quickly as possible."

To access these supports, evacuated British Columbians need to register with the Red Cross by calling 1 800 863-6582, between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. (Pacific time).

The Canadian Red Cross works with the Province, local authorities and Indigenous leadership to help all people and communities affected by extreme weather and flooding in British Columbia.

"The Canadian Red Cross is grateful for the trust and support of the Province of British Columbia through the provincial Emergency Support Services (Columbia and is committed to ensuring this much-needed assistance reaches people who were evacuated from their primary homes," said Pat Quealey, vice-president, British Columbia and Yukon, Canadian Red Cross. "Our humanitarian workforce has been activated to support response efforts in some of the hardest hit communities, and the Red Cross will be there to assist people impacted by these floods, now and in the ESS) program weeks and months to come."

Cream Cheese Penguins!

Ingredients

Decrease Serving

1 8

Increase Serving

Original recipe yields 1 8 servings

Ingredient Checklist

1 8 jumbo black olives, pitted

1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese, softened

1 8 small black olives

1 carrot

Step 1

Cut a slit from top to bottom, lengthwise, into the side of each jumbo olive. Carefully insert about 1 teaspoon of cream cheese into each olive. Slice the carrot into eighteen 1/4 inch thick rounds; cut a small notch out of each carrot slice to form feet. Save the cut out piece and press into center of small olive to form the beak. If necessary cut a small slit into each olive before inserting the beak.

Step 2

Set a big olive, large hole side down, onto a carrot slice. Then, set a small olive onto the large olive, adjusting so that the beak, cream cheese chest and notch in the carrot slice line up. Secure with a toothpick.

The Santa Claus at the shopping mall was very surprised when a young lady aged about 20 years old walked up and sat on his lap.

Now, we all know that Santa doesn't usually take requests from adults, but she smiled very nicely at him and asked 'What do you want for Christmas?' 'Something for my mother, please,' replied young lady sweetly. 'Something for your mother? Well, that's very loving and thoughtful of you,' smiled Santa. 'What do would you like me to bring her?' Without pausing, the lady answered quickly, 'A millionaire son-in-law.'

Orion & Capella's Snow Island Adventures

The Christmas Lantern Walk

On one particular night in December, Orion and Capella were allowed to stay up late. This was because they were taking part in Snow Island's first-ever lantern walk. Trailing behind their parents, they followed other hikers through the woods along the Star Trail. Soon, the group would arrive at the observatory where they would be able to admire the night sky and, if they were lucky, catch a glimpse of the northern lights. Illuminated by the glow of their lanterns, the twins happily joined in as the crowd sang Christmas carols. The mood was merry, and it was a perfect night for a stroll.

Suddenly, someone cried out in pain. "Mrs. Isla twisted her ankle," a man called out.

Several people turned back to help the mayor, who'd been keeping stragglers company at the back of the group. Orion, Capella and their parents quickly followed. While the mayor apologized profusely for having ruined the hike, the adults discussed what to do. Some thought that one person should wait with her until help arrived, while others offered to help her hobble the rest of the way to the observatory since it wasn't far. Just then, Orion had an idea: "Hey, why don't we make her a stretcher?" "Yes, we learned how to make one this summer at the Little Explorers' Day Camp," his sister added. "It won't be easy to do by lantern light, but I think we can make it work," one woman responded cheerfully.

Excited to put their knowledge to the test — and to help Mayor Isla — the twins began explaining what to do. For many, the activity brought back memories of their own childhood outdoor survival lessons, and a sturdy stretcher was built in no time. A few people carefully helped Mayor Isla onto the stretcher, and the strongest members of the group carried her up to the observatory while others lit the way. Soon, they joined the rest of the crowd who'd gathered around the observatory and extinguished their lanterns.

Capella was disappointed not to see any northern lights, but then her brother pointed to the sky and cried out with excitement: "Look, you can see Orion from here!" "You're right," she replied, gazing up at the constellation her twin was named after. "Help me find my star!" "Your star?" asked the mayor, who'd been positioned on the ground nearby. "Yes, Capella is the brightest star in the Auriga constellation," the girl explained. "Oh, I didn't know that," the mayor replied. "Your parents must really like stars if they named you after one." "It's because they met here," Orion said. "Dad took his class on a field trip to the observatory, and Mom was their guide." "How romantic," Mayor Isla exclaimed, following the girl's finger as she pointed up at the star that was her namesake.

After gazing at the stars and sipping hot chocolate, the hikers prepared to make their descent. Suddenly, the sky lit up with flashes of fluorescent green. "Oohs!" and "Aahs!" resounded through the crowd as all stood mesmerized by the marvel. There was little doubt that the first edition of the lantern walk had been a great success, especially for Capella and others who got their first look at the northern lights.

THE END

Grandpa decided that shopping for Christmas presents had become too difficult. All his grandchildren had everything they needed, so he decided to send them each a cheque (check). On each card he wrote: 'Happy Christmas Grandpa' P.S. 'Buy your own present!'

Conclusion: Now, while Grandpa enjoyed the family festivities, he thought that his grandchildren were just slightly distant. It preyed on his mind into the New Year. Then one day he was sorting out his study and under a pile of magazines, he found a little pile of cheques (checks) for his grandchildren. He had completely forgotten to put them in with the Christmas cards

How many deer would a reindeer reign if a reindeer could reign deer?

A seven-year-old boy was stopped by police in northern Germany while trying to plough snow with a front loader he borrowed from his parents' business, authorities have told Will and Guy. Officers on patrol found the boy atop the 3.5-meter-tall [11.5-foot-tall] excavator after he had cleared the street in the town of Reinfeld and was driving back to the parking lot. The child noticed the police car behind him and stopped immediately. 'He opened the door, got out and admitted immediately that he did not have a driving licence,' the police report said. When asked why he had begun ploughing, he said his father had complained about the state of the roads. He saw the key in the ignition of the vehicle and set off. Police retrieved the key to the loader from the child and returned it, and the boy, to his mother

How do you know when Santa's around? You can always sense his presents.

On a flight to Mexico for Christmas vacation, I watched my four-year-old son, Max, stare intently out the airplane window. We had just taken off and were passing through some big white clouds. Max looked concerned and I wondered what he might be thinking about.

Suddenly his eyes lit up and a big smile came across his face. He announced loudly, "Mom! I know why we're not getting anywhere—we're stuck in all this snow"

Sarah new young bride calls her mother in tears. She sobs, 'Richard doesn't appreciate what I do for him.' 'Now, now,' her mother comforted, 'I am sure it was all just a misunderstanding.' 'No, mother, you don't understand. I bought a frozen turkey roll and he yelled and screamed at me about the price.' 'Well, the nerve of that lousy cheapskate,' says her mum. 'Those turkey rolls are only a few dollars.' 'No, mother it wasn't the price of the turkey. It was the aeroplane ticket.' 'Aeroplane ticket....' What did you need an airplane ticket for? 'Well mother, when I went to fix it, I looked at the directions on the package and it said: "Prepare from a frozen state," so I flew to Alaska

Three-year-old Maria's new secret puppy pooped under the Christmas tree before her father could put it in hiding. When Maria came home from her Grandma's on Christmas Eve, she went to look at the Christmas tree. Seeing the poop on the floor, Maria quickly ran into the kitchen to her mother. "Mom, I think you need to give the Christmas tree a time out." "Why?" her mom asked curiously. "It pooped on the floor."

Four-year-old Keiran ran into his mother's room in a panic. "Mom, you need to get Duke out of here. Confused, his mom looked at him curiously. "Why?" "Duke ate Ellie the Elf, and Santa's probably going to call the cops," Kieran said frantically. At just that moment, an overweight bulldog came sauntering into the room merrily with a Santa ornament hanging out of his mouth. Keiran put his hand on his forehead and sighed. "Well, there's no hope for him now."

The cat had an obsession with the Christmas tree. The entire holiday season, it was a miserable job to keep the cat out of the tree. Thankfully, it was Christmas Eve, and the tree would be coming down soon. However, it was then that the oversized barn cat decided it was time to wage war. Unfortunately, the tree stand wasn't up to the added weight of the voluptuous tomcat. It came crashing to the ground with a thunderous boom. Upon hearing the resounding crash, the entire family woke. The living room looked like a Christmas wasteland, with ornaments rolling under the couch and the tree crushing presents. The cat slinked away under the radar to pick needles out of his fur. Bobby, the youngest, looked up at his mother in wonder. "Dad was right, Mom. Santa thought your Christmas tree was ugly too."

4 advantages of purchasing an ATV or snowmobile from a dealership

Do you want to buy an all-terrain vehicle (ATV) or snowmobile? If so, here are four advantages of shopping for your new vehicle at a dealership.

1. YOU CAN COMPARE SEVERAL MODELS

If you visit a dealership, you'll be able to compare several ATV and snowmobile models at a glance. You can simply walk from one vehicle to the next and test drive each one to help you make your choice.

2. YOU CAN GET PERSONALIZED ADVICE

Anytime you shop at a dealership, you can get guidance from experienced sales people who know the vehicles they sell inside and out. They'll be able to answer your questions and suggest specific models to meet your needs.

3. YOU CAN PURCHASE ADD-ONS

Purchasing an ATV or snowmobile from a dealership gives you the option to customize your ride by adding or modifying certain features and accessories. You can personalize every detail to meet your specific needs.

4. YOU CAN GET FINANCING

ATVs and snowmobiles can be pricey. Therefore, depending on your budget, you may need to finance your purchase. Fortunately, dealerships have on-site staff that specialize in financing and will take the time to explain the process, answer your questions and make sure you sign up for a payment plan that's right for you.

To find your new ride, visit an ATV or snowmobile dealership in your area.

One of the reasons Santa can make his marathon runs through the bay and give gifts to the kids all over the world is due to the help of elves. The merry spirit of Christmas is because of these cheerful workers and their commitment to the kids of the world
